

MINISTERIAL VISIT FOR TYCO WATER'S NEW SOMERTON FACILITY

Victorian Minister for Water, The Honourable Timothy Holding visited Tyco Water's new manufacturing plant in Somerton, in order to welcome the release of the project impact assessment report and the preferred route for the Sugarloaf pipeline.

Tyco Water's new SINTAKOTE steel pipe plant at Somerton will manufacture the 70km long 1750mm and 1404mm diameter Water pipeline. The SINTAKOTE steel pipeline system was ideally suited for this high pressure, large diameter pipeline, with the combination of high strength steel and world class corrosion protection providing the long design life this strategic project required. Increasing our capacity through the new Somerton plant, leaves Tyco Water confident of exceeding supply expectations for this and other Water supply pipeline projects into the future.
